

Weather Networks

Weather

Know your weather. Analyze the impact of environmental conditions on your fields using in-field weather stations and join a weather network through your retail partner to track regional conditions.

Available Data: Temperature - Precipitation - Humidity - Wind Speed/Direction

Shared Networks

Retails can create regional or localized networks to provide access to accurate weather stations for growers in their area. Growers can anticipate weather, plan farming operations accordingly, and execute timely applications.

Weather stations can be shared among several farmers with appropriate data privacy considerations.
